AN INTRODUCTION

HISTORY OF THE DEPARTMENT

The department of English was established in 1955. Dr. Muhammad Ahsan Farooqui was the first head of the department. The department was located in Shivjee Murarji building in Nanakwara. Later in January 1960 when the university moved to its present location, the department was housed on the first floor of the Old Block in the faculty of Arts. Professor Dr. Ahsan Farooqui was the first head of the department of English. Prof. Dr Ali Ashraf, Prof. Maya Jamil, Prof. Dr Muzaffar Hussain and Prof. Dr Kalim-ur-Rahman were among notable chairpersons. The department offers masters programme in both English Literature and Linguistics in the Morning as well as Evening.

CAREER OPPORTUNITIES

Students of the department of English have entered a variety of vocational fields. Some of these fields are: CSS, Advertising, Media (T.V, Radio, Newspapers, Magazines, etc.) Banking, Business, Teaching, Educational Administration, Research, Translation, to mention only a few. Excellent job opportunities are available for the students of English department in the country and abroad.

Criterion 1

Programme Mission, Objectives and Outcomes

Criterion 1- Programme Mission, Objectives and Outcomes

Mission Statement of the department:

The mission of the department is to inculcate linguistic and literary competence in students, to develop critical thinking, and to train them to become competent professionals. The department also aims to promote research culture and prepare students to effectively participate in a global community. The department strives to promote group work so that the students can work in collaboration with others.

Standard 1.1: Programme Mission & Objectives of (M.A) Literature:

The objective of the M.A Literature programme is to develop and enhance literary sensibility and critical understanding of different literary genres and how they reflect the literary, cultural and socio-historical context in which they are produced. The overall objective of the programme is to inculcate humanistic values through literature to foster tolerance, understanding and empathy, thereby enabling the students to make meaningful contributions in a globalized world.

Standard 1.2: The program must have documented outcomes for graduating students. It must be demonstrated that the outcomes support the program objectives and that graduating students are capable of performing these outcomes.

1.2 PROGRAM OUTCOMES

By the end of the M.A (Literature) students are able to:

- interpret different literary genres
- engage in critical debate
- show independence of thought
- exercise critical judgment and produce critical discourse

Strengths and Weaknesses of M.A (Literature) Program

- i) Strengths: The programme is designed with a view to provide the students with firm grounding in the canonical English literature and a strong grasp of contemporary developments in literary studies around the world. The programme incorporates such traditional courses as Elizabethan drama, Romantic poetry and Victorian literature along with such advanced courses as literary theory, postcolonial theory and training in literary research. It also includes World Literature in translation and South Asian Literature to give students understanding of literature from around the world and from within their own literary context.
- ii) Weaknesses: The programme currently does not provide any credit/noncredit literary courses to help students whose language proficiency is weak. Literary pedagogy and contemporary literature are also missing.
- c) Future Development Plans: The Syllabus Revision Committee has started working to fill in the gaps by making room for the courses that can be incorporated in the M.A(Literature) programme.

Standard 1.3: Overall Performance Using Quantifiable Measures

Most of the students who get enrolled in the M.A (Previous) are unable to pass all the courses because of their limited linguistic proficiency in English. Some of them join the department assuming that they will get a chance to learn English without realizing that they need to have sufficient literary and linguistic competence to cope up with the courses they are required to study in M.A (Previous). Because of the absence of admission test in the past many such students got admission, who, did not deserve to be in the department. Such a situation is not only frustrating for the teachers but the students also feel equally frustrated and are disoriented. Every semester there are quite a few students who fail to pass all the courses and appear as repeaters the following year. Not all the students appearing as repeaters manage to pass the exam.

Out of six students who appeared as repeaters in M.A (Previous) Fiction, only one student passed. Only 48% students in M.A (Previous) passed all the papers of the first semester. It is not possible to do the same calculations for the results of the second semester as one of the teachers has not submitted the result of one of the courses she taught to M.A (Previous) in the second semester. Despite several reminders from the Registrar and the Chairman, the results have not been submitted yet.

The situation is better in the final year Literature. In M.A (Final) Literature, 61% students managed to pass all the papers in the first semester, while in the second semester the percentage of students passing all the papers is 94%.

In order to resolve the issue of students' unsatisfactory performance in M.A (Previous), the department has succeeded in getting the entry test rule passed in the Academic Council as a result of which M.A admissions will be based on the results of the entry test from 2015 onwards.

Standard 1.4: The department must assess its overall performance periodically.

a) Student Enrolment in M.A (Previous)

Year	M.A (Previous)	M. A (Final) Literature	M.A (Final) Linguistics	Total
2014	44	16	8	68

- b) Student/faculty ratio: 22:1
- c) Duration of the M.A (Literature) Programme (2 years)
- d) The minimum student grade point (CGPA): 1.4
The average student grade point (CGPA) 2.8

e) Employers' Satisfaction

The employers we contacted have not expressed a very high opinion of our graduates, which of course, cannot be generalized as the ones working under them may be those who did not have very good performance even during their university life. However, the employers' feedback is significant in the sense that they have highlighted a few areas that we need to work on to improve the performance of our future graduates. According to the employers who filled the survey form, the graduates of English department lack good communication skills, leadership qualities and report writing skills. They have also identified gaps in our graduates' time management abilities, as they are unable to meet deadlines.

f) Faculty Satisfaction:

Since the faculty satisfaction survey was not conducted, not much can be said about the teachers' opinion. However, in the department meetings the teachers often complain about the lack of facilities in the department.

g) Research Activities:

The department of English has 18 teachers, including 1 Professor, 2 Associate Professors, 8 Assistant Professors, and 7 Lecturers. Out of the 18 faculty members, 3 are on study leave. Currently, the research output is inadequate, but it is hoped that the department will be able to enhance its research output in the near future. The Chairman of the Department of English has made a plan for introducing fortnightly research seminars in 2015 to promote research culture in the department.

The nature of some of the courses offered in both M.A Final Literature and Linguistics is such that it requires the use of internet to search for the relevant research studies.

Standard 2.7: Oral and written communication skills of the students must be developed and applied in the programme.

Although there is no special course in the M.A programme to develop oral and written communication skills of students, the courses in the M.A programme are designed in such a way that the students are able to polish their reading and writing skills. However, there is a need to incorporate presentations to polish students' oral communication skills.

CRITERION-3

LABORATORY AND COMPUTING FACILITIES

CITERION-3: Laboratory and Computing Facilities

Computer Facilities

The department has one computer lab with internet facility for the teachers and students. The internet facility is also available in the offices of teachers. The Department of English does not have adequate computer facilities/ services and administrative staff to support its faculty, students and staff in their academic and administrative activities. There is only one computer lab which is also used for both morning and evening classes because of the shortage of classrooms.

ii) Multimedia

The Department of English does not have the facility of multimedia, as a result of which students cannot be trained to give power point presentations. There is only one overhead projector which is often utilized for presentations.

iii) Internet

Internet facility and a connection with main communication network of the University is available.

CRITERION-4

STUDENT SUPPORT AND ADVISING

CRITERION-4 STUDENT SUPPORT AND ADVISING

Standard 4.1: Courses must have been offered with sufficient frequency and number for students to complete the program in a timely manner.

Students of the Department of English are provided adequate support to complete the program in a timely manner and have ample opportunity to interact with the teachers to receive timely advice about the program requirements and career development.

Departmental Strategy for Offering Courses:

The department of English offers courses for B.S, B.A (Hons), M.A (Literature), M.A (Linguistics), M. Phil (Linguistics) and M. Phil (Literature) programmes. The department sets its own time table for M.A (Literature), M.A (Linguistics), M. Phil (Linguistics) and M. Phil (Literature) programmes. The time table is strictly followed to complete the syllabus. Below are the details of the number of hours allocated to M.A (Literature) programme:

Program	Classes per Week	Research Guidance
M. A (Literature)	15	3 classes per week

Standard 4.2: Course in the major must be structured to ensure effective interaction between students, faculty and teaching assistants.

Course allocation is made in the meeting of the faculty members. The chairperson presides over the meeting. The teachers of English department believe in interactive classrooms which provide enough opportunities to students for classroom participation. Besides classroom interaction, students and teachers get a chance to interact with each other in meetings of the Social interest groups that students run in the department with the help of the Student Advisor and some other faculty members. A number of social and co-curricular activities are organized under the supervision of the Chairman and the Student Advisor. Shakespeare’s day is celebrated at the department level every year in which students get a chance to display their creative genius.

- Following are the SPECIAL INTEREST GROUPS (SIGs) working at the Department Level:
 - The Sharafat Ali Cassette Library for Blind University Students: This is a library for blind students of the university which is housed in the English Department.

- The Book SIG: The main aim is to share and thus encourage out of course reading.
- The Dramatics SIG: The main aim of this SIG is to provide a platform to the students to bring out their creative abilities.

Standard 4.3: Guidance on how to complete the program must be available to all students and access to academic advising must be available to make course decisions and career choices

The Student Advisor of the Department of English provides guidance and counseling to students regarding their academic and professional career. The students can also consult other faculty members for guidance regarding their career opportunities. Sometimes the alumni are invited to share their work experience and provide counseling to students for choosing a profession for themselves.

The interest of all faculty members must be sufficient to teach all courses, plan, modify and update courses. The majority must hold a Ph.D. degree in the discipline.

The faculty members of the Department of English are active in teaching and some are also engaged in research. Teachers attempt to complete the syllabus within the specified time and in case of need hold extra classes to complete the course. Besides the permanent faculty members, the department also has a team of 12 part-time cooperative teachers who are assigned the task of teaching English compulsory to students of different departments in the university.

Standard 6.2: All faculty members must remain current in the discipline and sufficient time must be provided for scholarly activities and professional development. Also, effective programs for faculty development must be in place.

- i) All teachers meet the HEC criteria for appointment in the respective cadre.
- ii) Teachers generally participate in seminars and conferences at National / International levels.
- iii) At present there are four Ph.D. degree holders and two M. Phil degree holders. There are three faculty members on study leave: two are pursuing their Ph. To help the faculty of the Department of English to excel in their profession, the department has decided to take the following steps:

- i) Promotion of research culture by organizing fortnightly seminars which would require the faculty members to share their research with their students and colleagues
- ii) Organizing and conducting in-service teacher training workshops for the faculty members

CRITERION-7
INSTITUTIONAL FACILITIES

Criterion-7 INSTITUTIONAL FACILITIES

Unfortunately the Department of English lacks the basic infrastructure. There is an acute shortage of space in the department, as there are not enough classrooms and offices. Due to shortage of classrooms, some of the classes are held in the seminar library, language lab, and even in the teachers' offices, in case of small groups. The furniture also needs to be replaced as many chairs and tables are broken. Same is the case with the lecterns and window panes. Despite several written complaints, no serious action has been taken so far. The entire department needs renovation which is beyond the budget of the department. Because of the lack of basic facilities, the faculty members are reluctant to stay in the department after their classes as a result of which the department suffers as most of the projects that the Chairman has planned for the progress of the department require team work.

Standard 7.1: The Institution must have the infrastructure to support new trends in learning such as E-learning.

Computer and Internet Facility

The department of English does not have adequate computer facilities/ services to support its faculty, students and staff in their academic and administrative activities. The language lab has ten computers out of which seven are in the working condition, the other three require maintenance. There are two printers; both are in the working condition and are utilized for the administrative work. Internet facility and a connection with main communication network of the University are available. However, there is a need for Wi-Fi service.

Standard 7.2: The library must possess an up-to-date technical collection relevant to the program and must be adequately staffed with professional personnel.

a) Main Library

Faculty members and students of the department are allowed to use the main library. The main library provides the following services:

- i. Course books related to a variety of disciplines
- ii. Digital library with free access to journals and E-books

b) The English Department Seminar Library

This is situated in the department and houses a large variety of books on English and American fiction, poetry, drama, essays and history etc. Books on Linguistics, English language teaching and Applied Linguistics are also available. The Seminar Library has a good collection of old and recent journals covering a wide range of areas related to both Linguistics and Literature.

The Dr Kalim-ur-Rahman Reference Section is situated within the Seminar Library. It contains over two thousand books, and is a very rich resource for research. Membership is available only for students of the department.

The department has ordered more books related to both the disciplines. However, there is a need for allocating more budget for buying books.

Standard 7-3: Classrooms must be adequately equipped and offices must be adequate to enable faculty to carry out their responsibility.

Classrooms

Due to shortage of classrooms, the Department also uses its computer lab for teaching purpose. Some of the classes are held in the computer lab as a result of which the research students cannot use the lab in those slots. The department has white boards, black boards, one overhead projector, but there is no multimedia to support teaching. In the course evaluation survey conducted by the self-assessment team, students have expressed the need for teaching through using audio-visual aids which is possible through multimedia. Besides multimedia, the department needs more classrooms to cater to the needs of its undergraduate and graduate students and one conference room for organizing seminars and workshops. The English Department has a fragmentary existence as one of its classrooms is in the new building, whereas one classroom is on the ground floor. The department should be given a separate building or at least one complete floor to improve its face validity.

There is an open terrace which is utilized by male students and faculty members for offering prayers, but there is a need for prayer room for girls. Currently the seminar library is utilized for this purpose.

Faculty Offices

The department of English does not have enough space to adequately accommodate its faculty and administrative staff. A separate office for each faculty member and a proper place for M. Phil and Ph. D students are required so that they can work in privacy.

CRITERION-8

INSTITUTIONAL SUPPORT

Criterion-8 INSTITUTIONAL SUPPORT

The financial resources for the program are not sufficient to provide an environment in which the program can achieve its objectives and retain its strength.

Standard 8.1: There must be sufficient support and financial resources to attract and retain high quality faculty and provide the means for them to maintain competence as teacher and scholars.

The Department of English has only one computer lab and a seminar library for research. The financial budget for regular purchase of books is very limited. The major financial source of the Department is the University of Karachi which allocates budget for the Department. Since the university is suffering from financial crisis, the department does not get any money for maintaining the classrooms, offices and the computer lab which does not have even have the facility of multimedia.

Standard 8.2: There must be an adequate number of high quality graduate students, research assistants and Ph.D. Students

Currently, the department of English does not have Ph. D students, but it aims to announce admissions in the Ph. D programme in the year 2015. The following Table shows the number of students enrolled in M.A (Literature) program of the Department of English:

Degree Program	Year 2013-2014
M.A (Previous)	50
M.A (Final) Literature	16

Standard 8.3: Financial resources must be provided to acquire and maintain library holding, laboratories and computing facilities.

The University of Karachi does not provide enough financial resources to maintain the library and computers in the lab. The department does not have separate funds to maintain and upgrade its library and computing facilities. HEC is requested to provide additional financial resources for strengthening the Department of English.

SURVEY RESULTS

- Following surveys were conducted to compile the process of self-assessment report:
 - a. Teacher & Course evaluation survey

- a. Results of the Teacher and course evaluation Survey:

The students have expressed satisfaction with the teaching that takes place in the M.A (Literature) and Linguistics programme as most of the teachers' teaching is rated above 60%. However, students have expressed their dissatisfaction with some teachers' style of teaching and lack of punctuality. They have also voiced their concern for the late announcement of results by some teachers. Almost all the literature students have expressed the need for including assignments in the literature courses to make the courses more interesting and practical. The same point is made by students of Linguistics for the World Englishes paper, which, according to them, can be made a task-oriented course. Students of M.A Linguistics also feel the need to make the section on Syllabus designing in TESL II more practical.

After analyzing the course evaluation survey results, following gaps have been identified with reference to individual courses:

- M.A (Previous):
